

Happy Father's Day!

Being a father is one of life's greatest joys. I love my kids and everything that goes with it. Being a father has taught me lessons that I would never have experienced if I didn't have my daughter and son.

I have fun playing with Megan, I live just being around her. I love seeing her grow, learn new things, and watching her experience life.

As a result of being a father I have really learned a lot about His love for us. I have also learned that there is a real responsibility that goes with being a good father.

Ephesians 6:4 states, "Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord." (New International Version).

The Bible says that fathers have the responsibility to "bring up" or "train" their children. This is a unique and critical role in raising their kids and helping their families keep on track spiritually.

If you are a father, this is your day! A day to enjoy the many thanks for all you do.

But it is also a good opportunity to think about your role in your family and how you can do an even better job of being a father. Remember, it is often the little things that make all the difference to your kids.

~ Jim Caton

And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.
